

2021 DIRECT AND INDIRECT POLITICAL CONTRIBUTIONS

During 2021, Mohawk made no direct political contributions to individuals, political parties or political action committees (PACs). This is consistent with past years.

While Mohawk may express political engagement by offering technical information to elected officials or governmental agencies or provided context on the impact of political decisions, this is not accompanied by donations. The Company does not employ lobbyists, nor does it contract with them.

Mohawk is a member of a number of trade associations (a list is available in each annual ESG report), and some of these organizations do lobby government officials and agencies as a part of their activities. Mohawk does not have a voice in directing these efforts and sometimes does not agree with all political positions of the trade associations. (If a trade association in which Mohawk is a member is not listed below, then that trade association does not engage in political activities, which is more typical of these groups that primarily manage trade shows, exchanges of technical knowledge, technical research and product category advocacy.)

Similarly, Mohawk is a member of a number of organizations in the United States, typically chambers of commerce, that promote pro-business agendas, which include community initiatives such as job fairs, marketing of a region to prospective businesses or promotion of tourism. In some instances, these organizations take positions on political issues or candidates that includes financial support, which may result in a small percentage of dues from all members being used for these purposes. Mohawk does not have a voice in directing these efforts and sometimes does not agree with all of the political positions of the chambers of commerce.

In the interest of transparency, the Company is providing a list of these groups below, including each organization's name and membership fees paid by the Company in 2021.
